To: The Honorable Andrew Cuomo
Members of the New York State Legislature

On behalf of the New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund Board of Directors, I am pleased to present this annual report for 2010. This submission contains a thorough analysis of Breeding Fund activities in what was a challenging year for the breeders, racehorse owners and stallion owners served by the Fund.

At the same time, it was a year when stakeholders experienced very positive developments. The underpinnings of New York's thoroughbred industry were stabilized when state leaders embraced Genting New York as the operator of what will be one of the state's biggest Racinos. When that facility opens at Aqueduct in 2011, NYRA will realize a reliable revenue stream. It will also boost the Breeding Fund's incentive program.

By making these incentives more generous, we will be in better position to attract new people to this exciting sport and form of recreation.

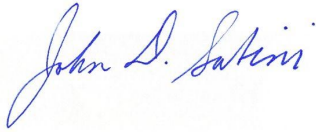

Horse racing and agriculture-related industries play a vital role in the overall state economy and helps to preserve green space and bolster tourism in our state. The work by the Fund helps assure that New York remains a preeminent racing jurisdiction.

The Fund's chief challenge in 2010 was tied to the demise of New York City OTB, which historically provided roughly one-third of all Fund revenues. The corporation declared bankruptcy in December 2009 and later stopped statutory payments owed to the Fund. However, the Racing and Wagering Board secured a directive requiring 0113 to set aside revenue for the Fund in segregated accounts. As a result, most of that set-aside money was paid to the Fund by mid-December 2010.

Today, the future of New York racing appears far brighter than it did just one year ago. The Fund is strong and weathered the storm. We look forward to another year of rising to the challenges that come our way.

Sincerely,

Chairman

Executive Summary

To put a fresh twist on the slogan of the New York Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund programs, New York-breds in 2010 still started with an advantage. Chief among those advantages: over $9 million in awards earned by breeders, stallion owners, and race horse owners in 2010. These awards help program participants pay feed bills, property taxes, and employees. Thus, the Fund continues to serve as a catalyst for the preservation of the State's thoroughbred industry and the retention of an estimated 40,000 agri-business jobs in all parts of the state's agricultural sector.

The 2010 report details highlights of NY-bred accomplishments at home and abroad, and provides a detailed accounting of receipts and disbursements of the Breeding Fund's three major incentive areas of breeder awards, stallion awards, and open-company owner awards. Additionally, it contains the performance results of New York-breds at the racetrack and an analysis of the success of the New York State Thoroughbred Breeding Program regarding farm count, foal production, and New York-based stallions and their progeny.

Among the highlights of 2010 were the accomplishments of New York-bred A Shin Forward, who won the Grade 1 Mile Championship at Kyoto race track in Japan in late November. Horses born on New York soil racked up international earnings totaling $69,289,272 in 2010. Bred by Edition Farm in Waccabuc, A Shin Forward's earnings now top $3.3 million, making him the second-highest NY-bred earner behind famed Kentucky Derby winner Funny Cide.

Speaking of A Shin Forward, we would be remiss if we did not mention that the entire equine community mourns the death of Henry "Harry" Malloy this past fall. Harry and his wife Vivien enjoyed running Edition Farm together, and have campaigned horses on the New York circuit for nearly three decades. The couple has passed on their love of horses to their five children and eleven grandchildren and step-grandchildren. Mrs. Malloy told friends she believes Harry had his arms around the horse when A Shin Forward crossed the finish line in stakes-record time.

The Malloys serve as a shining example of the kind of love and dedication to horses that drives so many of our breeders to carry on during tough times. Add to that a devotion to their farm land that would rival that of Gone With the Wind's Gerald O'Hara ("Land is the only thing in the world worth working for, fighting for, worth dying for, because it's the only thing that lasts") and the reader will understand why the state's breeders stick with the program as they tighten their belts and look for signs of stability and upswing in the equine economy. For many, stewardship of their land is something they look upon as a duty, which fits perfectly with the Breeding Fund's mission: to preserve, protect, and promote the green-belt sector of NYS in order to foster the growth and expansion of NY's thoroughbred breeding industry.

We can look back on the Fund's more than three-and-a-half decades of impact on the thoroughbred and agri-business economies and see that the programs administered by the Fund are at the very heart of what helps sustain the breeding of thoroughbreds here in the Empire State. Over 37 years, the Breeding Fund has returned nearly $350 Million to our agricultural and equine economy.

Significantly, New York-breds have the opportunity to compete for good purse money in restricted company on what is arguably the best circuit in the nation at Aqueduct, Belmont Park, and Saratoga Race Track operated by the New York Racing Association. During last summer's spa meet, NY-breds competed for an average purse of $44,849. And New York-breds also have the "advantage" of the opportunity to earn good money by running at Finger Lakes Gaming and Racetrack in the central part of our state. New York-sired horses win approximately 60% of all races run at the racino, and about one-third of all stakes races. In addition, a 2007 study found that with 115 trainers and 475 full-time employees, the racino has a $120 million economic impact annually on the surrounding region.

Because the New York Breeding Program has become the envy of other states, several locales have pumped up their programs in an attempt to dethrone the acknowledged leader. The state of Indiana bankrolled some $200,000 worth of advertising to lure breeders to the Hoosier State. New Jersey cut back on racing dates, boosted purses, and generated an increase in total pari-mutuel handle of $123 million. Those higher purses forced NYRA to compete for horses to fill the starting gate by raising purse money for open-company races and cutting back on purses for NY-breds. Another challenge to breeders and commercial boarding operations in NYS comes from our neighboring state of Pennsylvania, where $20 million annually is now disbursed through the PA program.

Most readers are aware that the 2009 bankruptcy of NYC OTB, its subsequent failure to make full statutory payments to the Fund in 2010, followed by the failure of legislators to approve a settlement worked out over many months by major stakeholders had a negative impact on the industry in NYS. Add to that backdrop the fact that the Fund's revenue is based solely on handle, which has been falling steadily for several years,* and it becomes apparent why the Fund had to make adjustments so that it could maintain its commitment to its core mission of preserving green space. Those adjustments included staff reductions, an extension of 2009 changes to the awards structure, and additional duties for the field inspectors who help maintain the integrity of the Breeding Fund Registry.

Looking forward, it's clear that NY-breds will be starting with a NEW advantage that comes with the delivery in mid-2011 of the long-promised VLTs at Aqueduct. Expected to be operational by July, the handle from the VLTs will fuel purse increases at the NYRA tracks and generate additional revenue for the Fund. For budgetary planning purposes, the Fund is estimating that each machine will generate an average of $275 per day, a figure that NYRA believes to be conservative.

As you'll see in the pages ahead, the roster of stallions standing in the state is a smaller but arguably stronger group of studs than has been here in the past. Two major Kentucky farms have launched satellite stallion operations by teaming up with farms that had already earned good reputations among the state's breeders.

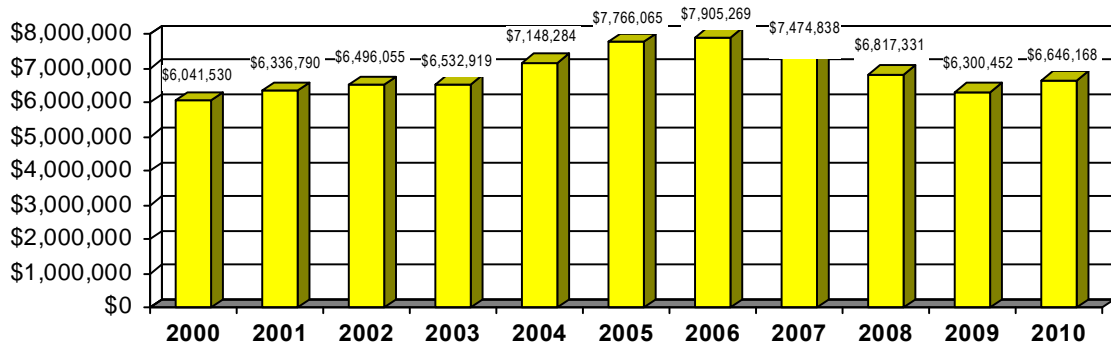

The leading breeder in the nation, Adena Springs, teamed up in late 2010 with McMahon Thoroughbreds in Saratoga Springs. The Vinery operation out of Kentucky is providing NY-breeders with access to the Giant's Causeway, Distorted Humor, and AP Indy sire lines as they add to the strong roster of stallions at the old Empire Stud in Hudson.

The reader will also find in these pages the results of the 2009 Harry M. Zweig research report from Cornell University. When the 2010 report is published, the Fund will update this annual report to reflect the latest equine research performed at Cornell with the support of $227,853 supplied by the Fund.

* “Thoroughbred racing declined nationally in handle by 7.3% in 2008, by 9.8% in 2009, and by 8.4% in the first four months of 2010.” Bennett Liebman. The New York Times, June 6, 2010.

Performance of NY Stallions in 2010

By Rab Hagin

For the first time since the 2002 season, two stallions standing in New York had over $4 million in annual progeny earnings: Posse ($4,224,805) and Freud ($4,035,403). In fact, a total of eight New York stallions (all living) topped $2 million ó the highest number of living annual multi-millionaire sires ever to stand in New York. A dozen New York-based stallions had more than $1.6 million in 2010 progeny earnings, and the 11 of those that are still living (one died in 2006) are all scheduled to remain in the state for the 2011 breeding season. Freud, who entered stud in New York in 2002, became the first stallion with more than $4 million in annual New York-conceived progeny earnings since the late Cure the Blues achieved that distinction following his death more than a decade ago.

Third-leading 2010 New York-based sire Repent ($3,016,624) and fourth-leading sire Congaree ($2,904,673) both stood in the state in 2010, while Touch Gold ($2,894,002) and Alphabet Soup ($2,605,414) arrived later in the year as part of the Adena Springs contingent to stand at Joe and Anne McMahon's McMahon of Saratoga Thoroughbreds. Golden Missile ($2,539,814) has stood at Dr. Jonathan Davis' Milfer Farm in Unadilla since 2008, but Grade 1-winning miler Purge ($2,288,817) is another late 2010 arrival to the Empire State, standing at Vinery New York in Hudson. Catienus ($1,913,144) and New York-bred Read the Footnotes ($1,879,444) have both stood substantial stretches of their stud careers in New York.

Among New York's new stallion arrivals for 2011 that have not been represented by runners are two multiple Grade-1 winners of more than $2.3 million each: Tiago, whose first foals arrive in 2011 and who stands at Adena Springs/McMahon, and Marsh Side, who is entering stud under Questroyal Stud management. The track-record-setting Tiago (Pleasant Tap ó Set Them Free, by Stop the Music) is scheduled to stand for $5,000 (live foal) as the property of a syndicate. Marsh Side (Gone West ó Colonial Play, by Pleasant Colony), a stakes winner on both turf and Polytrack, is owned by Robert Evans and stands at Silvernails Farm in Pine Plains for an introductory fee of $2,000 (live foal).

Multiple Grade-2 winner Silent Name (Sunday Silence ó Danzigaway, by Danehill), whose first offspring are 2-year-olds of 2011, is another stallion on the Adena Springs/McMahon roster and has a 2011 stud fee of $5,000 (live foal). Entering stud at McMahon are graded winners Harlem Rocker (Macho Uno ó Freedom Come, by Lit de Justice) and Coal Play (Mineshaft ó Wiscasset, by Kris S.) ó the former as part of the Adena Springs contingent, and the latter as the property of McMahon. Harlem Rocker, who finished first in Aqueduct's Grade 1 Hill 'n' Dale Cigar Mile in 2008 but was disqualified to second, has a 2011 stud fee of $3,500 (live foal), and Coal Play, a standout miler, has a fee of $4,000 (live foal) for 2011. Entering stud at Vinery New York is multiple Grade-2 winner Justenuffhumor (Distorted Humor ó Justenuffheart, by Broad Brush), who is a half-brother to Eclipse Champion Dreaming of Anna and stands as a Darley Stallion for $5,000 (live foal).

Impressive Lineup of New Stallions Standing in NY

By Tracy Egan

A review of the trimmed-down list of registered New York stallions suggests that the needs of mare owners have dictated a retreat to quality for those studs standing in the state. Looking back to the year 2000, 134 stallions were holding court for mares. Just 68 owners registered stallions for 2010, and by the end of January 2011, 70 stallions had fulfilled the requirements of registration to stand stud duty in New York in 2011. The owners of these horses can anticipate collecting stallion awards from purses enriched by the long-awaited unveiling of Video Lottery Terminals at Aqueduct.

Certainly the two major Kentucky operations ó Adena Springs and Vinery ó that sent stallions to New York in late 2010 to stand for the 2011 breeding season believe that New York breeders will welcome the chance to breed their mares to in-state sires when those stallions are quality performers from good families and represent desirable sire lines. As Dermot Carty, Director of Sales for Adena Springs, put it, "The slots initiative in the state of New York is very compelling. The prospect of improved purses as well as stallion and breeder's awards was a strong motivation for Adena Springs Farm to support the New York State program with our stallions."

Adena Springs topped its roster of studs standing at McMahon Thoroughbreds in Saratoga Springs with proven sire Touch Gold. The son of Deputy Minister has already sired 10 graded stakes winners and, with a $10,000 stud fee, figures to attract some of the state's top mares whose owners are looking for Northern Dancer bloodlines.

Listed alphabetically, the other Adena stallions that are new to New York are Breeders' Cup Classic winner Alphabet Soup; Withers S. [G3] winner Harlem Rocker, who brings the Macho Uno sire line to New York; Silent Name (JPN), a dual G2 winner by top Japanese sire Sunday Silence out of a graded stakes-winning daughter of Danehill; and Tiago, the son of Pleasant Tap who earned $2.3 million dollars while notching wins in such prestigious Grade 1's as the Santa Anita Derby, The Goodwood Stakes and the Oaklawn Handicap, and who offers an outcross pedigree free of Raise A Native/Mr. Prospector and Northern Dancer.

Vinery made a seamless move into New York by taking over Empire Stud in Hudson. Having made its first foray into the NY stallion ranks in 2010 by sending popular sires Posse and Repent to the Hudson operation, Vinery took some more well-measured steps by sending three more graded stakes winners to the state for the next breeding season.

First-year sire Justenuffhumor, a son of Distorted Humor, won two Grade 2's on the turf at Saratoga Race Course in 2009: the Bernard Baruch Handicap and the Fourstar Dave Handicap. Charlie Boden, head of sales at Darley, which campaigned Justenuffhumor, said, "The New York breeding program is poised to become one of the most lucrative places in the country to raise a horse. We think Justenuffhumor will be well-received by New York breeders given his race record and world-class pedigree.ö

Vinery is also bringing the Gone West sire line to the state in the form of Kensei, a Grade 2-winning son of Mr. Greeley who is a half-brother to 2010 Eclipse Champion three-year-old Lookin at Lucky. Like Justenuffhumor, Kensei also proved he had a fondness for racing at Saratoga, though Kensei did his best running on the dirt, breaking his maiden at Saratoga in 2008 and coming back in 2009 to win the Jim Dandy [G2].

Purge is also making a new home in the Empire State. This A.P Indy sire-line horse also loved the Spa, as he broke his maid here in 2003 and came back to score an impressive victory in Grade 2 Jim Dandy at three. The son of Pulpit nailed his lone Grade 1 win at four with a smart victory in the Cigar Mile at Aqueduct. Vinery President Tom Ludt says, öWe think Purge will be well-received with New York breeders. He's in the top of his crop in every category, is a son of emerging sire of sires Pulpit, and on top of that he's a very attractive individual.ö

Questroyal Stud looks to bring durability, a top sire line, and a quality female family as it offers the Gone West son Marsh Side to breeders. The multiple Grade 1 winner earned more than $2.3 million dollars in a 31-race career that began at age 3 and drew to a close at age 7. His Grade 2-winning dam Colonial Play is by stamina influence Pleasant Colony, and she is a full sister to the dam of Eclipse Champion 2-year-old filly Pleasant Stage. Marsh Side will stand at Silvernails Farm near Pine Plains.

Other newcomers included in the New York Stallion Registry, which is published by New York Thoroughbred Breeders Inc. with the financial support of the Fund, include:

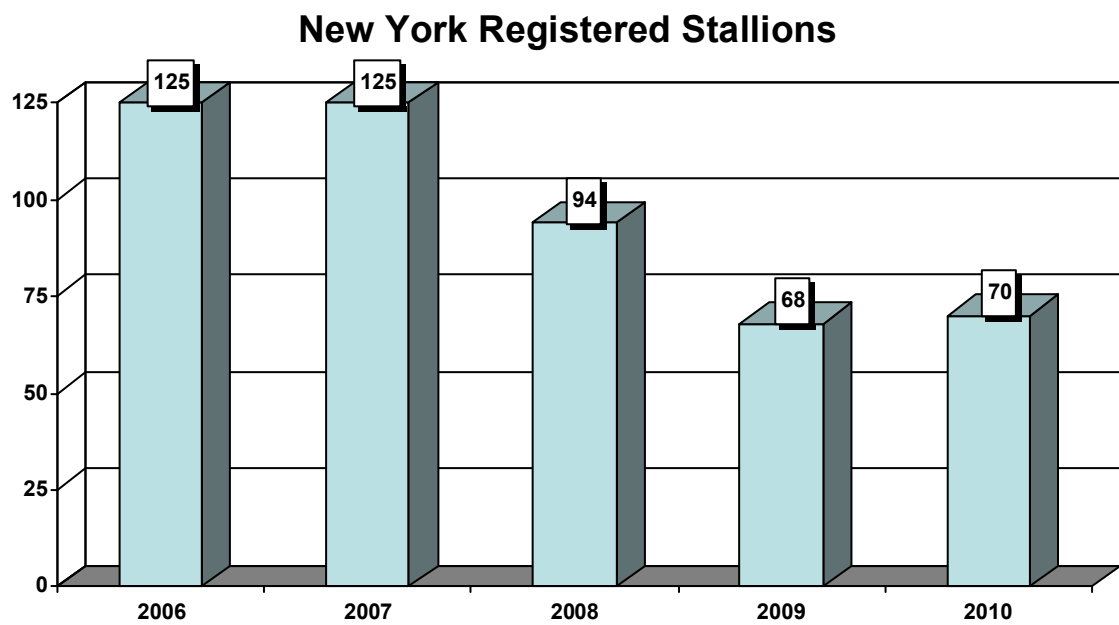

Coal Play: The only son of 2003 Horse of the year Mineshaft at stud in NY will stand at McMahon Thoroughbreds. Coal Play's trainer, Hall of Famer Nick Zito, says, öCoal Play could carry his speed over a mile, winning wire-to-wire in four of his five wins. Coal Play has tremendous conformation, a tremendous body and brilliant speed. He has the ability to make a terrific stallion.ö

Magical Forest: This five-year-old son of Forest Camp is out of the precocious Silken Magic. He raced 15 times and won three stakes, including the G3 Barbaro S. at Delaware Park.

Malibu Moonshine: His sire, Malibu Moon, stands for $60,000 in Kentucky. This horse, owned by Joseph Forrest, will stand for $3,000 at Carlland Stables in Avon, NY. Talk about durable: Malibu Moonshine launched his race career with three wins as a two-year-old, including the St. Nick Stakes at Charlestown. He went on to race 59 more times through age 8, amassing a record of 62 - 12 (7 stakes) - 5 (3) - 8 (4) with earnings of $597,370.

Relato Del Gato: Another durable runner, this son of Tale of the Cat, who stands for $30,000 at Ashford Stud in Kentucky, won the Phoenix Gold Cup H. at age six and notched a second in the Grade 3 Morvich Handicap that same year. He stands for a private fee at the Cohn Farm in Ferndale, NY.

NY-Breds at Auction

By Rab Hagin

In the sales rings, three young females in November were 2010's highest-priced New York-breds: Fit Right In (in foal to Curlin), the 8-year-old dam of Rightly So, sold for $1,050,000 at Keeneland, and 2010 Grade-1 winners Rightly So and Franny Freud sold for $600,000 and $560,000, respectively, at Fasig-Tipton Kentucky. The unraced Fit Right In, who produced Rightly So as her first offspring, was purchased by Katsumi Yoshida, who was also the buyer of Franny Freud. Rightly So, who had been a fairly pricey 2-year-old in training at the Ocala Breeders' Sales Company's 2008 February select sale, going to Zayat Stables for $220,000 with Becky Thomas's Sequel Bloodstock as agent, was purchased by Patinack Farm.

Among the 385 New York-bred yearlings that sold at auction in 2010 for prices totaling $9,956,500 were 19 that brought six-figure prices, headed by a Tale of the Cat colt out of Valdivia, by Pleasant Colony that was purchased for $325,000 at Keeneland's September sale by Fox Hill Farm. That colt, named The Thinker, was bred by Empire Equines, LLC.

A higher proportion of New York-bred 2-year-olds in training brought six-figure sales prices in 2010 compared to New York-bred sales yearlings, as 132 juveniles bred in the Empire State grossed $5,082,300 at auction, including 12 that went for six-figure bids. Top-priced among the dozen was a filly by Henny Hughes out of Open Window, by Trempolino that was purchased for $275,000 by Thoroughbred Futures at Fasig-Tipton Florida's select sale at Calder. That filly, named Midnight Visit, was bred by Dr. Jerry Bilinski.

New York-bred weanlings sold at auction in 2010 totaled 46 that brought aggregate final bids of $1,369,500, and the two that went for six-figure prices included a colt by Rock Hard Ten out of Regard, by Fusaichi Pegasus, purchased for $300,000 by Westrock Stables, LLC at Keeneland's November sale. Named Taken for Granite, the 2010 colt was bred by Berkshire Stud.

An interesting common characteristic of the top-priced yearling, 2-year-old, and weanling among New York-breds sold at auction in 2010 was that all three had unprepossessing catalogue pages. None were out of dams that had won or placed in stakes competition (two of the dams were winless), and none were out of dams that had produced stakes winners. Other factors ó appearance, racing and earning opportunities available, or perhaps the under-tack workout performance of 2-year-old Midnight Visit ó must have enhanced their attractiveness to buyers.

2010 Registry Compliance Report

The underlying theme for the registry compliance team at the New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund in 2010 is one that will sound familiar to those working under economic constraints at every level from farm to state agency: doing more with less.

This was the first full year that the Fund's field representatives worked under a 2009 directive from the Board of Directors to keep a watchful eye on the health and welfare of thoroughbreds. It was a duty added in the wake of the 2009 rescue of dozens of animals from the Greene County farm of breeder Ernie Paragallo.* Mr. Paragallo was subsequently convicted in March 2010 on 33 counts of animal cruelty, and was sentenced in May to 2 years in prison and fined $33,000. He was released on bail the following month to appeal his sentence. Of the 96 horses taken from his Center Brook Farm in Climax, 6 had to be euthanized and the Columbia-Greene Humane Society cared for or found responsible homes for the remainder.

To maximize the effectiveness of the field team (currently consisting of Tom Conley and Tom Reynolds), Investigator Sue McDonough (State Police, retired) was invited by Executive Director Tracy Egan to review Article 26 of the Agriculture and Markets

Sue McDonough (left) with Tracy Egan and the field team

Law. Inv. McDonough shared that in her 26 years as a trooper, and now as an animal advocate, the majority of problems she has witnessed lie in the category of negligence resulting from ignorance, a lack of interest, or financial problems. She said that the first thing she does to help a horse is to help the owner understand that there's a problem and to try to help them rectify the situation.

Regular Duties of the Field Representatives

To the many people who live and work on farms across the state, the field representatives serve as the public face of the Breeding Fund. Typically, the field reps visit each of our more than 300 farms at least once per year. In the photo below, field rep Tom Conley demonstrates to Executive Director Tracy Egan how he confirms the identity of a mare residing at High Cliff Farm in Delanson, Schenectady County.

During farm visits, they check each mare's tattoo numbers or the identifying markings written on the mare's Jockey Club papers, to enable them to document an individual's status as a resident or non-resident broodmare. They not only count the number of mares at each farm, they also note whether each mare is in-foal and, if so, to which stallion and whether it is a New York or out-of-state stallion. The inspectors keep track of barren mares as well. In addition, if a mare (whose file travels with inspectors such as Tom Conley, as shown in the photo below) no longer resides on the farm, inspectors will mark down whether she left the state, moved to another farm in the state, or is deceased, retired, sold, or has been given away.

The information gathered at the farm level is logged into spreadsheets that are used by the Registrar and by the Fund's central office to confirm that an individual horse is eligible to be registered as a NY-bred. This registration adds tremendous value to a horse as a sales prospect and can return award money to the hard-working breeder, so the work performed by the field team is crucially important to protecting the vast majority of breeders who understand and abide by the strict rules of the NY-bred program.

Because green space is so important to the mission of the Fund, the inspectors also take note of acreage, number of buildings, barns, stalls, and fenced paddocks. In spite of the decline in the number of farms in the state to 307, the field representatives estimate New York breeding farms still encompass some 35,000 acres.

Field Reps Promote the Program

The field representatives have proven time and again that they are able communicators when it comes to spreading the word about the strength of the New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund Program. They travel armed with a thorough understanding of how our program works and stay informed about challenges facing the Fund, such as the 2009 bankruptcy filing of NYC OTB (the Fund's largest contributor) and its closure in late 2010. They offer to leave brochures provided by NYTB, Inc. that promote both the Fund programs and the benefits of trade-group membership, so that farms can pass along the promotional information to current or potential customers.

In 2010, the Fund also provided representatives with brochures to distribute concerning the issues of unwanted horses and responsible horse ownership.

Budget Crunch Hits Field Team

The financial statements included in this report detail how a decline in handle hurt revenue streams to the Fund. Due to such circumstances, the Board of Directors furloughed the newest member of the field team from September through December. At its December meeting, the third position on that field team, held by Jim Zito, was eliminated. We are grateful to Jim for his years of service to the Fund and the people we serve, and wish him well in his future endeavors.

*In 2010, the Board formally instituted a new rule that awards will be temporarily withheld from persons accused of animal abuse, and would not be paid to anyone convicted of felony animal abuse.

 In the summer of 2010, the Fund's Executive Director visited two farms that helped the Columbia-Greene Humane Society rehabilitate the rescued horses. All of the horses appeared to be in good health, with plenty of body weight, shiny coats, and trimmed feet.

2010 – The Odyssey of New York-Breds Enters a New Era

By Rab Hagin

Despite adversity on a variety of political and economic fronts away from racetracks, breeding farms and auction pavilions, in 2010 the New York Breeding and Racing Program achieved unprecedented success in racing, sales and the acquisition of stallion talent. For the first time ever, four New York-breds won Grade/Group 1 races in a single season, as 5-year-old horse A Shin Forward, 4-year-old colt Haynesfield, 4-year-old filly Rightly So and 3-year-old filly Franny Freud captured top-level events. Rightly So's unraced New York-bred dam was sold for $1,050,000 at Keeneland, and 563 New York-bred weanlings (46), yearlings (385) and 2-year-olds in training (132) brought prices totaling more than $16.4 million during 2010.

Two New York-based stallions ó Posse and Freud ó had 2010 progeny earnings topping $4 million, three had offspring earnings exceeding $3 million, and eight (all scheduled to stand in the Empire State in 2011) boasted progeny bankrolls of more than $2 million each in 2010.

Worldwide in 2010, there were 3,781 New York-bred starters, and they earned $69,289,272. Two New York-breds ó Haynesfield and Monmouth turf icon Get Serious ó became new millionaires in 2010.

The onslaught of New York-bred open stakes success in 2010, when 25 state-breds won black-type stakes in unrestricted company and nine tallied 17 times in graded/group events, began on the weekend of February 27-28. That Saturday, Jeff Fletcher and Hamilton Hale's 3-year-old son of state-based sire Catienus, Dont Blame the Cat, won Laurel's seven-furlong Miracle Wood Stakes, and Alan Brodsky's 4-year-old filly Don't Forget Gil captured Tampa Bay Downs' 1 1/16-mile Wayward Lass Stakes. On Sunday, Eishindo Company's New York-bred millionaire A Shin Forward scored his first group-level victory in the seven-furlong Hankyu Hai on Japanese turf.

The following Saturday (March 6), Chester and Mary Broman's New York homebred 3-year-old filly Khancord Kid took Gulfstream Park's graded Herecomesthebride Stakes at 1 1/8 miles on turf. About two hours earlier, New York-bred Castaneda had romped by three lengths in a front-running effort for Team Stallion Racing Corp., John Moirano, and Harold Lerner in Aqueduct's six-furlong Fred "Cappy" Capossela Stakes for open 3-year-olds. Five days later (March 11) at Aqueduct, Blue Bison Stable and Stewart Hoffman's New York-bred daughter of in-state sire Congaree, Shine Upon, took the Dreamy Mimi Stakes for open 3-year-old fillies going a mile and 70 yards.

In April, New York-breds invaded Kentucky and came away with three graded stakes victories. On April 7, the amazingly versatile Franny Freud, a semi-homebred daughter of in-state sire Freud racing for Paul Pompa Jr., Stephen Yarbrough, and breeder Anthony Grey, scored by 4 ¾ lengths in Keeneland's Grade 2 Beaumont Stakes for 3-year-old fillies going just beyond seven furlongs on Polytrack. Three days later on Keeneland turf, Michael Dubb and High Grade Racing Stable's 7-year-old Silver Timber registered the first of back-to-back graded grass sprint wins in April by taking the 5 ½-furlong Shakertown Stakes. On April 30, Silver Timber was on Churchill

Downs' lawn, where he shouldered top weight to win the graded Churchill Downs Turf Sprint in a stakes-record clocking of 55.45 for five furlongs.

Another daughter of Freud, Repole Stable's 5-year-old Lights Off Annie, gained her first open-company black type on Preakness Eve (May 14) with a 5 ½-length romp in Pimlico's six-furlong Skipat Stakes. She had previously won the latest two renewals of Aqueduct's Broadway Stakes for New York-bred fillies and mares. The next day at Delaware Park, owner-trainer Wesley Ward's first-out-winning (at Keeneland) juvenile New York-bred filly, Final Mesa, registered a facile 4 ¾-length triumph in the four-furlong Polly Drummond Stakes on conventional dirt. Eight days later on May 23, Anstu Stables' 2009 New York Thoroughbred Breeders (NYTB) juvenile male champion, Ibboyee, won Monmouth's Spend a Buck Stakes at a mile and 70 yards for 3-year-olds.

New York-breds captured five stakes at four different tracks in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Ontario (Canada) during June, beginning with Silver Timber's third consecutive stakes tally of 2010 while under top weight in Monmouth's Wolf Hill Stakes at about 5 ½ furlongs on turf on June 5. Three days later, Everything's Cricket Stable's multiple turf sprint stakes-winning 6-year-old mare Ahvee's Destiny got her first synthetic-surface black-type victory in Presque Isle Downs' Satin and Lace Stakes at 5 ½ furlongs over the Tapeta strip. On June 12, perennial New Jersey standout Get Serious, a 6-year-old New York-bred racing for James Dinan, Jacques Moore and Phantom House Farm, was inexplicably overlooked in the graded Monmouth Stakes at 1 1/8 miles on turf but won anyway against eight rivals ó four of them favored over him. A week later, Benchmark Racing Stable's Lady Rizzi, a 7-year-old always-improving New York-bred mare, gained her first black type by winning Colonial Downs' 5 ½-furlong Buckland Stakes on turf over 10 rivals, despite breaking from the tenth post. On the final Saturday of June, Final Mesa improved to three-for-three with a 7 ¾-length laugh in Woodbine's My Dear Stakes at five furlongs on Polytrack. (She's for real; on January 5, 2011, she won Gulfstream's graded Old Hat Stakes at six furlongs on dirt for newly-minted 3-year-old fillies.)

Turtle Bird Stable's 2009 NYTB Horse of the Year, Haynesfield, won Belmont's historic Grade 2 Suburban Handicap at 1 1/8 miles on July 3 by 2 ¾ lengths , marking his fourth consecutive victory and second score of 2010 following an overnight mile tally at Belmont 20 days earlier. On July 4, Franny Freud took Belmont's Grade 1 Prioress Stakes at six furlongs, stamping herself as arguably the best 3-year-old sprint filly in North America and becoming the only 2010 stakes winner at that time on dirt, synthetic, and turf. On the Monday, July 5 holiday of the Independence Day weekend, Zayat Stables' Rightly So, a 4-year-old daughter of in-state sire Read the Footnotes, led throughout under top weight in Belmont's graded Bed o' Roses Handicap at seven furlongs, capping probably the best three-day span ever for New York-breds.

On July 17, another unbeaten New York-bred juvenile stakes winner emerged at Woodbine ó a la the aforementioned Final Mesa ó in Martha Gonzalez's Glory Game, who won the $142,215 (in U.S. funds) Colin Stakes at six furlongs on Polytrack by two lengths over a prohibitive odds-on (and stakes-winning) favorite. On July 30, Obviously NY Stable's three-time NYTB champion of 2009 (older female, turf female and sprint female), the 5-year-old Canadian Ballet, captured Penn National's six-figure Jenny Wade Handicap at five furlongs on turf in 55.64 while under top weight.

Get Serious scored his second of three graded turf victories of 2010 in Monmouth's 1 1/16-mile Oceanport Stakes on August 1. Six days later, Landsdowne Stables' New York-bred Sharp Secretary won Woodbine's $147,118 (in U.S. funds) Duchess Stakes for 3-year-old fillies going seven furlongs. The next day, JMJ Stables' New York-bred son of Read the Footnotes, Out of Respect, won Monmouth's Select Stakes for 3-year-olds by daylight over the 1-to-2 favorite (by New York-based sire Posse) who was coming off five consecutive stakes victories. On the final Saturday (the 28th) of August, Rightly So became the second New York-bred Grade 1 winner of the summer with a four-length gate-to-wire domination of Saratoga's seven-furlong Ballerina Stakes, advancing to the head of the class among 2010's female dirt sprinters.

Get Serious returned to Monmouth turf for his third graded victory and fourth win (in five starts) of 2010 on Labor Day eve (Sunday, September 5), capturing the one-mile Red Bank Stakes under top weight at odds-on and bettering his own course record ó set in 2009 ó by clocking 1:32.37. That victory, registered over five foes carrying five to seven pounds less than the New York-bred winner, and coming despite his stumbling and bumpy start, boosted Get Serious' earnings to $1,000,691, making him the 23rd millionaire bred in the Empire State.

Another New York-bred NYRA stakes winner outside state-bred company emerged from the New York Stallion Stakes program when Aliyu Ben J Stables' homebred Freud colt, Lubash, took Belmont's one-mile Fifth Marine Stakes for eight 3-year-olds on yielding turf while carrying co-top weight on September 17. The next evening, Hillwood Stable's first-out-winning (on turf) New York-bred Bandbox cruised to a 9 1/2-length triumph in the six-figure Charles Town Juvenile Stakes at a two-turn seven furlongs on dirt for his second of three consecutive wins.

In Belmont's historic Grade 1 Jockey Club Gold Cup on October 2, Haynesfield did what no other horse ó not even future Hall of Famer Zenyatta ó could do in 2010, beating eventual Eclipse Champion Blame "handily" by four lengths in that 1 1/4-mile weight-for-age event. The victory made Haynesfield the 24th New York-bred millionaire, and eight weeks later he boosted his bankroll to $1,166,981 by placing a close second ó beaten a head ó while under co-top weight among nine in Aqueduct's Grade 1 Hill 'n' Dale Cigar Mile Handicap. A week later, Silver Timber got his fourth turf stakes victory of 2010 and third graded tally of the year by beating 10 rivals in Keeneland's 5 1/2-furlong Woodford Stakes while carrying top weight. On October 29, Patsy Symons' New York-bred Gitchee Goomie proved that her solid third-placing at almost 22-to-1 among seven in Belmont's grassy Grade 1 Garden City Stakes 41 days earlier was no fluke when she won Belmont's 1 1/8-mile Topicount Stakes for 11 open 3-year-old fillies on turf.

A flurry of New York-bred open stakes successes highlighted the six-day span from November 20 through Thanksgiving. Majesty Stud's homebred Stormy's Majesty, who had won Saratoga's Albany Stakes for state-bred 3-year-olds in August, captured Aqueduct's graded Discovery Handicap at the Albany distance of 1 1/8 miles on November 20, scoring by two lengths over six rivals. Three weeks later, that first offspring produced by New York-bred mare Raffie's Dream (by in-state stallion and NYTB champion Raffie's Majesty) faced older foes in Aqueduct's graded Queens County Stakes at 1 3/16 miles and placed second, missing by a head to a 5-year-old carrying five pounds less weight.

On November 21, another standout produced by a New York-bred mare, A Shin Forward, beat 17 rivals to win the Group 1 Japan Mile Championship (1,600 meters on turf) in a stakes record 1:31.80, boosting his 2010 bankroll to $2,273,386 and surpassing Funny Cide's single-season New York-bred earnings record. Now with career earnings of $3,374,068, A Shin Forward ó who had been purchased for $290,000 at Fasig-Tipton Florida's 2007 select sale of 2-year-olds in training at Calder ó is within less than $200,000 of Funny Cide's total record earnings for a New York-bred.

On the same Sunday as A Shin Forward's Group 1 triumph in Japan, Lubash scored by 2 ½ lengths over seven rivals in Aqueduct's Monarch's Maze Stakes for open 3-year-olds going a mile on turf, getting his fifth victory (four on turf, one on dirt) of 2010. Winning by two lengths under equal top weight of 129 pounds in Aqueduct's graded Fall Highweight Handicap on Thanksgiving (November 25) was Vincent Scuderi and James Riccio's New York-bred 6-year-old, Endless Circle, who clocked the six furlongs in 1:09.79. It was Endless Circle's 11th career victory and eighth tally of 2010 (two others in stakes for state-breds) on the NYRA circuit, punctuating an exceptional season for the durable sprinter.

2010 NYTB Champions

Intriguing developments emanating from the epic 2010 season involve the dilemmas of choosing certain NYTB champions.

What Grade/Group-1 winner should be Horse of the Year: Haynesfield, the only conqueror of Eclipse Champion Blame in 2010; A Shin Forward, who shattered Funny Cide's single-season earnings record for a New York-bred; or Franny Freud, who won stakes on dirt, synthetic and turf?

Who deserves the Champion Turf Male title: A Shin Forward; three-time graded winner (at three different distances) Get Serious; or three-time graded winner (and four-time turf stakes winner) Silver Timber?

What Grade-1 winner is most deserving for Champion Female Sprinter: multiple-surface star Franny Freud, who also beat males but raced exclusively against 3-year-olds; or Rightly So, whose graded wins came against fillies and mares from all crops?

Does graded winner Stormy's Majesty deserve Champion 3-Year-Old Male honors over Chester and Mary Broman's homebred Friend or Foe, who beat older New York-breds (as well as Stormy's Majesty) in New York Showcase Day's Empire Classic and obliterated Say Florida Sandy's stakes record in Belmont's seven-furlong Mike Lee?

Who is a stronger candidate for Champion 2-Year-Old Male: unbeaten (two-for-two) Woodbine stakes winner Glory Game, or 9 ½-length Charles Town Juvenile Stakes winner Bandbox, who five weeks later captured New York Showcase Day's Sleepy Hollow Stakes?

These are good dilemmas to have.

Promotion and Advertising

In 2010, for the second year in a row, the New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund used NYTB, Inc. as its sole source provider for promotional services. New York Thoroughbred Breeders, Inc. is a trade and lobbying group that claims hundreds of NY breeders, owners, and stallion and farm owners as members. It does direct e-mailing to more than 4,000 individuals, and hosts or co-hosts events for established members of the racing community as well as newcomers and potential participants in New York racing.

During 2010, the Fund paid out a net amount of $226,500 to NYTB Inc. Please review the NYTB promotional summary below.

NYTB PROMOTIONAL REPORT DEC-JAN 2011

ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTY

NYTB held its Annual Holiday Party on Monday December 13th at the Longfellow's Restaurant in Saratoga. The event concluded the year's activities and provided an outlet for breeders to communicate current events affecting the industry and topics of interest.

NEW YORK STALLION REGISTER

NYTB published the 2011 NY Stallion Register with the Thoroughbred Times. This issue included many new features relating to stallion statistics and historical information about New York-breds. Issues were distributed across the country to farms, tracks, auction houses, breed associations and industry businesses.

NYTB NY BREEDER MAGAZINE

NYTB produced September, October, November and December issues of the New York Breeder in print and electronic format. Issues were distributed across the country, to promote the NY program nationally. The distribution of the magazine includes national tracks, auction houses, breed associations and industry businesses.

E-NEWSLETTERS

NYTB published a regular weekly electronic newsletter discussing relevant topics to NY breeders and industry participants. The eNewsletter has grown to over 4000 recipients. This electronic communication tool has allowed NYTB to send New York Breeders information that is timely, up-to-date, and geared to areas of their greatest interest and concern.

NY-BRED ADVERTISING

NYTB continued its NY-bred print and electronic advertising campaign. The advertisement followed a new direction of channeling promotions for NY-bred targeted at consumers of the industry:

The Blood-Horse Auction Edge. The Blood-Horse Auction Edge is an exclusive collection of information, including complete racing and sales histories through a sale horse's second dam. There is no other sales guide like it. It helps determine a sale horse's potential as a racehorse and its value in the marketplace.

Thoroughbred Daily News (TDN) ran advertisements every Tuesday of September through year's end December. This electronic publication quickly becoming the leading space for advertising industry messages, as its distribution is over 6000 subscriptions, making it the largest source publication for our industry daily.

The bulk of NYTB's advertisements were placed in the Thoroughbred Daily News, which bills itself as the "Wall Street Journal for the Thoroughbred Industry Worldwide." TDN is e-mailed daily to an estimated 6,000 people who are intimately connected with horse racing and breeding. The NYTB ads were placed on Tuesdays. Advertising was light in the first half of the year, when there was still uncertainty about VLTs and the effect of NYC OTB's bankruptcy on the Breeding and Development Fund. However, if you followed the ad campaign through the remainder of the year, you saw that it trumpeted the positive news about VLTs as well as the accomplishments of New York-breds. Here, we "start spreading the news" about the VLTs being a done deal.

AQUEDUCT VLTs

Done Deal At Last!

ALBANY, N.Y. — More than 1,000 voters who claimed credit were helping to bring the Aqueduct race track to New York City now that a long-delayed contract has gotten final approval from the state comptroller.

Comptroller Thomas DiNapoli said Monday he has approved a contract for Gaming New York LLC to build and operate about 6,500 of the machines at the three-registered track in Queens.

The group the company to start to pay the state $100 million in 2011. Some officials say they expect to eventually get $1 million a day in revenue.

The addition of Gaming New York to the state's list of gaming operators will allow the state to collect more revenue from the track.

Haynesfield's magnificent campaign - and Derby aspirations - were on display by nearly seven months on the bench after the Grade 1 Claret Stakes. The four-year-old gelding, a son of Springfield, finished 20th in style for trainer Steve Asmussen, winning the $250,000 Empire State Stakes in October and the $100,000 Empire State Stakes in November by open lengths. This was only the second time in his career that he has won a stakes race.

After a decisive victory in his first race of 2010, a $100,000 Empire State Stakes, Haynesfield's campaign to win the Claret Stakes was on. He finished 20th in style for trainer Steve Asmussen, winning the $250,000 Empire State Stakes in October and the $100,000 Empire State Stakes in November by open lengths. This was only the second time in his career that he has won a stakes race.

GI Triumph for NY Bred Haynesfield in JCGC

New York's ongoing search for the Yearling of the Year and Champion Three-Year-Old Haynesfield has kept racing fans wondering how big the race, such as the Claret Stakes, and what every challenge Haynesfield would face. After making the grade, Haynesfield will be the Claret Stakes Champion for the year.

The Fund would like to point out that in response to requests from some breeders to counter the advertising campaign funded by the Indiana program, the Fund paid half the cost (NYTB paid the other half) to place a cover tip-off ad in The Blood-Horse magazine.

As luck would have it, the ad just happened to be on the Zenyatta (Breeder's Cup Classic winner and eventual 2010 Horse of the Year) commemorative edition, so it is a promotion that should have lasting effect.

If MONEY talks...

There were many more ads that ran over the course of the past year, and the Fund looks forward to collaborating with NYTB, Inc. in 2011 as we help promote the responsible breeding and ownership of quality New York-breds.

Additionally, the Fund gave its website a new, updated look and, we hope, made it more user-friendly. In early 2011 we will be moving back to our original web address, www.nybreds.com, where we will continue to keep members of the industry informed about the issues affecting breeding and racing in New York State.

Breeding Programs in Other States

By Executive Director Tracy Egan

The merit of breeding programs in other states, and their ability to compete with the New York breeding program, was closely tied in 2010 to how each state's breeding and racing interests fared in their interactions with their respective state lawmakers. Here, we look at some of the factors affecting breeding programs in other states.

The state of INDIANA seemed solidly behind the efforts of ITOBA, the Indiana Thoroughbred Owner's and Breeder's Association, to attract more business to the state. ITOBA had a $200K advertising budget to buy cover tips on industry magazines and place commercials in which they boldly attempted to recruit breeders and owners to the state. As previously mentioned in this report (in the Promotions and Advertising section), many Empire State breeders felt that this was a direct challenge to our primacy and asked that we respond with a highly visible cover tip. While the tagline "Check out why IN-breds for all your thoroughbred ownership questions" on the ITOBA website may make many smile, the organization is making a serious run at attracting industry dollars to their farms, training centers, and racetracks. The supportive attitude and funding of ITOBA allowed Indiana to offer a $4,000 increase in the award cap, bringing it to $14,000 for awards earned in restricted stakes races. (Note that NY awards are capped at $10k.) Prior to 2009, the minimum level to qualify for Out-of-State Breeder Awards was a claiming tag of $7,500 or higher, but that level has since been increased to $10,000. (Note that the New York program does not pay awards on any category of race run outside of NYS.)

As bright as things appeared for the ITOBA programs in 2010, Blood-Horse commentator Tom LaMarra suggested in one of his columns that there may be clouds on the Indiana horizon, saying that "Indiana (is) poised to join Delaware, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia as states that have taken gaming revenue from racing and breeding to fund state programs."

PENNSYLVANIA, which placed 62,000 slot machines across the state starting in 2006, resurrected the state's racing and breeding industries, but the state has since reached back in to take a share of the windfall for other state programs.

Despite having to share their newfound wealth, PA horsemen and women still benefit from the lion's share of the original statutory amount of 12% of slots revenue, which is directed to increased purses, improvements at racetracks, and the state's breeding program. When lawmakers adopted a budget in October 2009, it included a siphoning of 17% of the breeding and racing program money over the next four years. To put it another way, the PA programs are taking a hit of $2.7 million a year through fiscal year 2012-2013.

Still, the positive impact of slots on the racing industry in PA cannot be overstated. Richard McGarvey, spokesman for the Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board, was quoted on 12/29/10 by a suburban Chicago newspaper, The Daily Herald, as saying "It has certainly taken an industry that was flat on its back and revitalized it. You're seeing more racing dates in Pennsylvania. You're seeing more breeding in Pennsylvania, more barns opening that weren't here before." That same gaming board put out a report in Nov. 2010 demonstrating that live racing helps stimulate slots gambling, and therefore revenue for the state. Gross terminal revenues go up by an average of $56,000 on race days. While many racing fans complain that some racetrack casinos make it difficult to even find the racetrack, the Pennsylvania numbers demonstrate that while slots were meant to help racing, a live racing product also helps slots revenue.

The significance of New York's Southern Tier neighbor funding a $23-million campaign to turn Pennsylvania into "Kentucky East" lies in the fact that their foal crop is climbing higher as New York's has been dropping. For example, in 2008 Pennsylvania reported 1,510 PA-breds, just 378 fewer foals than were dropped on NY farms. As 2010 drew to a close, the 2009 PA registered foal crop stood at 1,277, with more registrations expected. The Fund reports 1,788 foals born on farms in New York during that same year.*

Clearly, the PA program is taking a first-time Lasix, first blinkers, apprentice-jockey approach (in the form of a hipper website, YouTube videos, blogs, and a multi-media ad campaign), as they try to outpace the Breeding Program leader: the New York Thoroughbred Breeding Program.

LOUISIANA boasts a breeding program that began back in 1963, when just 146 foals were reported born on the state's dirty dozen: a variety of 12 soil types, most of which were enriched by sediment deposits courtesy of the Mississippi, Ouachita, and Red Rivers. And LA breeders sure like raising horses: in 2008, the most recent year for which figures are available, 2,500 colts and fillies pushed their way out of their dams in the Pelican state.

When it comes to mares bred in North America, Louisiana climbed to number two with a reported 3,093 mares sent to the breeding shed in 2010. Only Kentucky reported more mares bred as the decade came to a close. This prompts some to point to the Pelican state as the best program in the nation. However, sheer numbers of foals and high purses don't tell the whole story when comparing programs.

According to the Louisiana Thoroughbred Breeders Association, "Louisiana's racing and breeding industry plays an important role in the state's economic well-being and contributes a significant source of state revenue. The combined impact of both racing and breeding and their related industries generates nearly $930 million annually and employs nearly 9,000 people." In contrast, the racing and breeding industries in New York State add an estimated $2.4 billion to the state's economy and employ roughly 35,000 people.

As in Pennsylvania, the purses in Louisiana are pumped up by slots revenue. The LA-bred program can brag that the average purse for races run in Louisiana in 2009 was $25,000.

For example, an article in the Times-Picayune quotes the owner of Le Mesa Stallions as pointing out a flaw in his state's program: "We – I mean the state as a whole – we have rewarded mediocrity." Brett Brinkman looks at LA largess and concludes that low-quality runners compete for too much money. Bottom-level LA-bred claimers chased after $12,000 in purse money when they ran at the Fair Grounds in 2010. Brinkman is again quoted, saying "The overproduction of the lesser breed and the lesser quality has always been an issue in Louisiana." Critics like Brinkman conclude that where purses are fueled by slots revenue, breeders should try to breed better-quality horses. The danger of having an overpopulation of lesser horses is that they won't find a buyer or make an impact at the entry box, and therefore on state handle coffers. Since most breeders can't afford to race even a few of their homebreds, buyers are an absolutely crucial element of a successful breeding program. Steely-eyed realists know they probably won't find a pot of gold at the end of the finish line, but they'd like to come close to breaking even and to have fun along the way. New York, which will probably see the first slots-enriched purses in the later half of 2011, would do well to listen to Mr. Brinkman's cautionary note about his own program: "We've grossly, as a racing program, catered to the cheaper horses."

FLORIDA: For the past decade and a half, breeders didn't have to check with the Jockey Club to know that Florida is the perennial Avis to Kentucky's Hertz in terms of the broodmare population in North America. This was not so in 2010. As mentioned above, Florida lost its second-place status to Louisiana. The 3,076 mares covered in 2010 reflects a 23.9% decline from the year before, when 4,041 bred mares resided in the Sunshine State.

Industry leaders across the nation can point to the struggling economy near decade's end for many of the problems in racing/breeding. In Florida, the problems have led to some finger-pointing at the group that represents the breeders and owners in the state, the Florida Thoroughbred Breeder's and Owner's Association. Member Gordon Reiss, who also represents other breeders who were not happy with the leadership of the FTBOA, was quoted in a Dec. 1, 2010 article at Ocala.com, saying "You can only blame the economy for so much. We had the biggest drop in number of mares bred in the country since 2008. We have mares and stallions leaving the state for Louisiana and other parts of the country with better incentive programs. What happened? Why are we lagging far behind?"

For its part, FTBOA is on the record as defending its lobbying efforts on behalf of breeders in the State Capital. In fact, in 2010 the membership group was able to convince lawmakers to lower taxes on slot-machine revenue from 50% to 35%. This allowed the group to add some flexibility to its awards system. In the past, Florida only paid awards at the win level. It's expected at this writing that the state will approve a change such that awards will be offered for horses finishing first, second, and third.

In addition, FTBOA expects to be able to pay out-of-state breeders' awards for Florida-breds that win one of the most popular betting events of the winter race season, the Sunshine Million races in California.

On the promotion front, the Florida breeding program joins its Department of Agriculture in paying for ads that proclaim: "Florida the Best State to do Business." Among the positives mentioned in the ads:

- ◆ No personal state income tax
- ◆ No individual capital gains tax
- ◆ Florida ranked third in U.S. in number of horses and size of its horse industry
- ◆ Florida's greenbelt exemption providing property-tax breaks for FL horse farms

Perhaps the crowning achievement in 2010 for the Florida horse industry is the fact that three Florida-breds won Breeders' Cup races: Dubai Majesty, Awesome Feather, and Big Drama. New York-breds did not make the winners circle this past year; however, a record five were entered. The New York Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund is confident that seeing the likes of Canadian Ballet, Deciphering Dreams, Haynesfield, Rightly So, and Silver Timber earning the right to compete on racing's biggest stage set an example of excellence that will inspire other New York breeders to dream big and adjust their breeding programs accordingly, to reach racing's highest level with the Empire State's product.

* In 2001, before Pennsylvania launched its effort to boost purses, gambling revenue, and agricultural income, as well as to lure tourism dollars to the Keystone State, just 901 thoroughbreds were foaled there. That's fewer than half the number born in NY that same year, when the Fund registered 1,985 foals.

Comments from Industry Spokespersons and Others

The following section concerns some of the comments and insights of individuals who have invested in horse farms and horse flesh in the Empire State. Additionally, we have included a newspaper article about the Greene County District Attorney who was honored for his dogged pursuit of a now-convicted horse abuser. Some of the comments come to the Fund via email, others by mail, and some are letters scanned and sent via email attachments.

We have omitted email addresses from a sampling of the correspondence we received and re-arranged the exchanges between correspondents and the fund, so that you can follow the messages in an orderly fashion.

Dear Ms. Egan,

Adena Springs is an international thoroughbred breeding organization, which has interests not only in the USA but in Canada, The United Kingdom, South Africa and Brazil.

In the past few years with the global downturn in the economy and the resulting changes taking place in the racing and breeding industry Adena Springs chose to diversify into many regional markets

First we chose to establish an interest in New York because we saw an opportunity to maximize our breeding program in what we believe is an emerging market. On the other hand it was because of a positive relationship with the McMahon Family of Saratoga.

Having been advised of the opportunities of the New York program by our friend Joe McMahon, we felt secure entering into a business relationship. Joe McMahon and his family are established and credible breeders in the State of New York. They have offered us the opportunity to expand into this marketplace which both Joe and Adena Springs feel is on the verge of expanding due to the numerous changes in New York State's vision for racing.

Sincerely,
Dermot Carty
Director of Sale

Dear Tracy,

Finger Lakes Racing in Farmington has a significant economic impact because their roots run deep into area towns and counties. "This is a community track. "We have about 115 trainers here. Nearly all of them live here, they have farms here." "They absorb most all the hay and straw around here for a hundred miles." "There are hundreds of farms that supply goods and services to the track. That pours money into the economy." Additionally, local businesses that include service stations, farm equipment, waste management, manufacturers, and restaurants benefit from racing.

A 2007 study showed Finger Lakes' economic impact on the region to be $120 million annually. That was based on the earnings and spending of 475 track employees and the 1,298 working independently in racing.

Statistical information:

- In 2010, we had 275 NY Bred races offered and 179 races filled for racing. That is 12.2% of our total (1,467) races held in 2010
- There are approximately 162 Finger Lakes Racing Association employees and approximately 820 working independently during live racing for 2010.
- The average live handle per horse per race was $15,888
- Our racing tax on live and simulcast was approx. $400k in 2009
- Our attendance in 2010 for live and simulcast racing was approximately 210,000 guests

Philip Palermo
Sr. Director of Operations

The New York State Breeding and Development Fund is the engine that drives the Finger Lakes Casino and Racetrack racing program. As proof, you need look no further than the fact that an estimated 70% of the thoroughbreds that raced at Finger Lakes during 2010 were New York-breds.

Fueled by $387,500 in contributions from the Fund, Finger Lakes was able to distribute more than $1.1 million in stakes purse money during 2010. That included $282,925 for the New York Breeders' Futurity, $161,600 for the New York Derby and more than $138,000 each for the Lady Fingers and Aspirant Stakes. All 13 stakes races during 2010 were restricted to New York-breds.

During Finger Lakes' 163-day live 2010 season, $644,871 from the Fund was distributed to horsemen through overnight purses. That's an average of almost $4,000 per day for the men and women who dedicate their lives to thoroughbred racing.

Finger Lakes was proud to invest more than $1.7 million in the Fund through casino revenue-generated contributions during 2010. Without the support received from the Fund since the Fund's inception, Finger Lakes would not be in the position it is today.

Finger Lakes and its management, horsemen and employees are grateful for all the positive results the administrators of the Fund have been able to achieve for the industry over the years. We look forward to a continuation of our mutually beneficial relationship and wish the Fund great success as we move forward together.

Sincerely,

VINERY^{LTD}

Ms. Tracy Egan
NYTBDF
19 Roosevelt Dr. Suite 250
Saratoga Springs, NY 12866

Dear Tracy:

Vinery has always been committed to the Thoroughbred Industry in many aspects. We are excited about the opportunity to expand our operations to New York. We wanted to participate in the regional markets and we sent Posse, Purge and Repent to Vinery New York (formerly known as Empire Stud). We have now sent a group of young mares to foal in New York and utilize the breed back program.

The New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund was a big draw for us to consider New York. This program has been very successful with bringing mares and stallions to the state to benefit from the lucrative awards program. The New York bred races are growing each year and with the passing of casino gambling at the race tracks the future purses and state bred programs can only increase.

Our full service operation is headquartered in Kentucky with a stallion division, boarding, public sales, sales prep and a rehabilitation center with an aquaciser. Our Florida division houses seven stallions and a state of the art training center. We have a covered aqua walker for lay-ups coming back for rehabilitation. We have the same aspirations and dreams for our clientele's equine athletes as we do for our own. For this reason our training center is booked year round.

Our dream for our New York division is to create the same loyal clients that we have in Kentucky and Florida and to help build on our current stallion roster and faithful boarders. We want to see this industry gain respect and rise again to the level it once had.

Sincerely,

Tom Ludt

Dear Carlton,

Congratulations on your winner. What's the horse's name, breeding, do you still own it? The checks will go out on Thursday, Dec. 2. It will only be 50% of what your horse earned due to two withholdings initiated because NYC OTB failed to make statutory payments to the Breeding Fund. However, it's beginning to look as though we will be able to pay the withholding early next year, probably in February.

Subject: Florida's example

Tracy,

In response to your newsletter dated Oct 2010, which made request for comments, I offer the following, which you may share with the Chairman's committee or anyone else:

Replicating Florida's example of discontinuing stallion awards for departed stallions would be: A) ill-conceived, B) illogical, and C) counter-productive.

A) Building a stallion base in the state is certainly one facet of the industry that the Fund has the ability to influence. By touting stallion awards, it has the bully pulpit to successfully argue that it would be indeed a profitable venture for any stallion owner or manager. However, by forcing any stallion owner or syndicate to remain in the state to collect awards from foals already produced is a disincentive that only sullies the credibility of the program, and hence foster skepticism. Therefore this measure would be ill-conceived.

B) It is illogical because you are punishing one group among the breeder's and rewarding another, at the formers expense. Why not stop paying breeder's awards from mares that likewise leave the state?

C) It is counter-productive because NY is considerably smaller than Florida and their paradigm is irrelevant (not that I would argue that they are right, on the contrary). No doubt Florida was used as a proving ground for stallions because of the vast amount of mares that professional horsemen bred, then broke, trained and raced or sold their progeny. Florida, with its 12 month training climate, and the vast amount of training tracks proved invaluable to facilitate the development of 2 yr-olds, and hence the quick boost to first and second year sires. This made the hot young stallions ripe to be relocated to Kentucky, or even now abroad, as they were given a jump-start. Mr. Prospector immediately comes to mind. Of course Florida did not have the deep pockets within the breeding community to protect a great young sire, and hence the stallions followed the market, as they should.

NY's situation is not comparable, because of the relatively small population of mares, and the longer time that the average NY Bred takes to get to the races. Our gene pool is so small that it would be most beneficial to every breeder to circulate stallions through the state, not incarcerate them in it.

Example: A new farm locates within our borders and brings a flashy, well-bred, newly retired G1, maybe eventually a classic winner to stand. The farm sends nearly all it's mares to support the horse in years 1 and 2. Other in-state breeder' flock to the stallion in those first two years. Then what happens? Anyone with good mares and good sense breeds their mares to other stallions after that. Who will be left to support that stallion? The stallion manager will be fighting for his financial survival because of the incredibly small amount of mares remaining that have not been bred to him in the first 2 years, most of which would be inferior to the mares previously bred. His CI would drop precipitously. The stallion manager needs to be free to market any stallion where it is most in demand, without punitive damages assessed after the fact, for work already done, and future bonuses already earned.

In fact, a case could be made that it would be more beneficial to all breeder's if additional rewards were given to any stallion that departs the state after standing for 2 years (tongue-in-cheek). The breeders of the state would be much better served if we had revolving stallions, shuttling from state to state, ala Catienus, or state to other countries. If the stallion awards were predicated on stallions remaining in the state in perpetuity, it would be difficult to construct such revolving stallion deals, thereby shackling the breeders, and likewise repressing the stallion managers from attaining new stock, as they weigh the potential monetary benefits from future stallion awards against the risk of new investment.

Perish the thought of regulating against horse-trading. All ships are lifted with a rising tide. Don't try to hold the tides back, as the tide waits for no man. Good business will go elsewhere if you try.

Re: Tracy's letter for October

Having bred and raced numerous homebred over the last 30 years, we felt we should weigh in publicly on the subjects being addressed by this committee.

YES-the fund should seek as commitment from NYRA to run a minimum number of races for NY-breds.

YES- the awards for open company owners should be bumped up

YES-stop paying awards to stallions that have left the state

NO!!-award payments on low-level claiming races should not be eliminated- ALL ny bred races should pay awards to the breeders

We, as a state breeding organization, should continually look around and learn from states such as Florida, Pennsylvania, and other entities. It is financially punishing enough to breed and raise horses in New York State. Doubly punishing to race in NY. The industry is important to all of us on all levels. Getting something back from enterprises that make huge profits from our products is important. Thanks for working for us, keep trying to get our share of this huge business.

CATSKILL — In the winner's circle at the Saratoga Race Course Friday, the county's top prosecutor was congratulated for convicting one of the thoroughbred industry's most dastardly.

Greene County District Attorney Terry Wilhelm was presented with a plaque for professional excellence in the successful prosecution and conviction of horse breeder Ernest Paragallo.

Paragallo was found to have 177 malnourished thoroughbreds at Center Brook Farm in the town of Coxsackie, which were seized by the Columbia-Greene Human Society/SPCA on April 9, 2009.

Following a seven-day bench trial in March, Paragallo was found guilty of 33 misdemeanor animal cruelty counts for improper sustenance. He was sentenced to two years in jail and a $1,000 fine for each charge, the maximum allowed by law.

The incident — and subsequent conviction — sent shockwaves throughout the thoroughbred and horse racing industries, and continues to redefine appropriate conduct for horse breeders throughout the state.

Wilhelm was presented the award on the eve of the Travers Stakes and in the company of some of the sport's top competitors.

He expressed gratitude during a phone interview Saturday and said he felt "humbled" after being presented the award.

"It was just a wonderful day and I felt honored," said Wilhelm. "This case seems to have had an effect on the regulatory agencies to increase monitoring of this type of activity. It's so gratifying to think that our little trial is having such a profound impact on the industry."

The award was presented by the New York State Police, who conducted an extensive investigation in the case, the New York State Racing and Wagering Board, who has stripped Paragallo of racing and owners' privileges, the New York State Racing Association, who has banned Paragallo from racing or visiting tracks, and the Columbia-Greene Humane Society/SPCA, who cared for and facilitated the adoption of nearly all the malnourished thoroughbreds found at the farm.

Wilhelm acknowledged the help of his colleagues, particularly State Police Sgt. Lisa Herdman, who provided priceless amounts of thoroughbred and animal cruelty knowledge to assist in the prosecution, and veterinarian Dr. Jerry Bilinski, who worked for hours with Wilhelm to learn about the proper care, treatment and ownership of thoroughbreds.

"A lot of cases have little special twists you have to be ready for," Wilhelm said, "so I became immersed in the feeding, care and treatment of thoroughbreds. Those guys spend hours with me on this case."

Since the Center Brook Farm incident, new regulations adopted by state Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund have resulted in more comprehensive inspections before awarding funds to breeders and suspension or revocation of funds to anyone implicated in horse cruelty.

Paragallo faces further fines by the state Racing and Wagering Board in the amount of $5,000 for each of his cruelty convictions.

He was released in June from serving his two year jail sentence in Greene County Jail pending appeal.

EQUINE RESEARCH

The New York State Thoroughbred Breeding & Development Fund Corporation gives two percent of its total annual revenue to the Harry M. Zweig Memorial Fund at the Cornell College of Veterinary Medicine in Ithaca, New York. In 2010, the Fund remitted the sum of $228,000 (preliminary figure).

The board of directors of the Harry M. Zweig Memorial Fund consists of Dean Michael Kotlikoff of Cornell and of representatives of New York's thoroughbred and harness racing industries. The New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund is currently represented on the Zweig Board by two members of the New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund's board: John Sabini, Chairperson, and Dr. William B. Wilmot.

At the annual meeting of the Zweig Fund, various equine research proposals are reviewed and evaluated. The Board then decides which proposals will be funded and at what level.

A copy of the Zweig Report for 2009 can be viewed at our website (www.nybredfund.com), and the 2010 report will be posted as soon as it becomes available.

Requirements and Regulations for the
New York-bred Registry

New York State Thoroughbred Breeding and Development Fund Corp.
19 Roosevelt Drive, Suite 250, Saratoga Springs, NY 12866
John Sabini, Chair Tracy Egan, Executive Director

Interpretation	The rules in this article shall be administered by the Fund and questions of interpretation and intent shall be determined by the Fund.
Administration	Procedures for establishing compliance with or satisfaction of such rules shall be established by the Fund and administered by its Executive Director.
Registration and de-registration	No horse shall be considered a New York-bred thoroughbred unless such horse is so registered by the Fund. Should the Fund be satisfied that grounds exist to cancel or void a registration, it may so determine and order any monies of the Fund due any person as a result of such questionable registration held and, if paid, to be returned to the Fund for proper disposition. In addition, pending such determination, the Fund shall be empowered to order retention of such monies as may be payable as a result of any questionable registration, for proper disposition, upon its final determination.
Sanctions	For good cause shown, the Fund may order that any individual shall be disqualified from participating as a beneficiary of such Fund for such time as it may determine appropriate.
New York-bred	(a) Definitions - as used in this article, the following terms shall mean: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Fund: The New York State Thoroughbred Breeding & Development Fund 2. Thoroughbred: A horse registered or qualified for registration as a thoroughbred by the Jockey Club 3. Horse: Except when from the context it appears otherwise, shall mean horse, stallion, mare, gelding, ridgling, colt, or filly 4. Foal: The offspring of a sire and dam, having been born 5. Foaled: Born 6. Sire: The male parent of a horse 7. Dam: The female parent of a horse 8. Breeder: The owner of the mare (dam) at the time it foals a New York-bred 9. "New York Stallion": A thoroughbred stallion standing in New York State and registered with the Fund in accordance with the law

For requirements and regulations regarding your foals, please contact our offices.

For foals of 1996 and beyond (1995 and subsequent breeding seasons), for a foal to qualify as a registered New York-bred, the dam of such foal must:

- A. Be continuously in residence in the State of New York from no later than 90 days after her last cover in the year of conception and thereafter remain in residence until foaling in New York State; or
- B. Foal in the State of New York and be bred back to a registered New York stallion and thereafter remain in New York for a continuous period of 90 days after giving birth to such foal.

These simple rules effectively create two categories of mares – resident mares and transient or visiting mares – and should make participation in the Fund program more attractive for prospective breeders and owners.
